TIMBER CREEK FOOTBALL EXPECTS TO COME BACK STRONG

With football comes hard work, wins, and losses, and Timber Creek football is no exception.

Coming off the bye week, Timber Creek is on the losing side of the gridiron. The Falcons, half way through the season, have a record of 4-1 in non-district and 0-1 in district play. Some fans may be left wondering why Timber Creek has the second best overall record in their conference, but are placed fifth in the standings. Fans should look no further than Timber Creek's district record.

Timber Creek is in Division 6A Region 1 District 3, with Fossil Ridge, Haltom, Keller, Abilene, Weatherford, and Keller Central. Games that the Falcons play against these schools are put in a separate record apart from the overall record. Wins and losses to district teams are pivotal in terms of the season, and playoff chances.

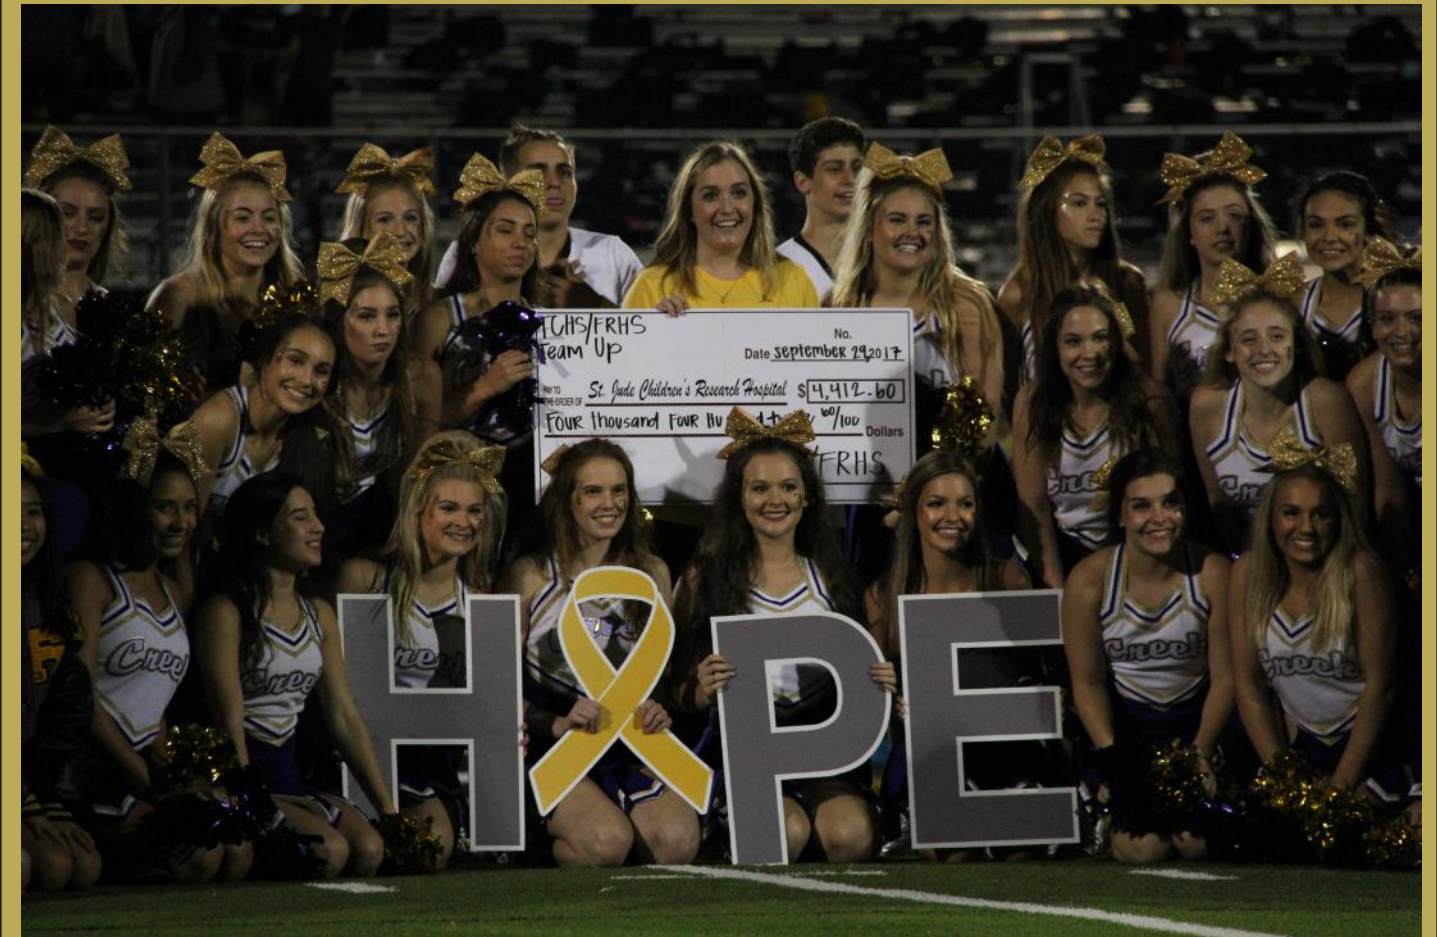

Only the top four of the seven teams advance to the playoffs, standings are determined by district record. Therefore, because of Timber Creek's district loss to Fossil Ridge the week of Oct. 6, their 0-1 record puts the Falcons in fifth place.

The Falcons will need to bounce back after the tough loss, as they prepare to begin the second half of the season, playing all district teams for the last five games of the season.

Timber Creek hopes to start the second half in winning fashion, as they attempt to take down an 0-6 Weatherford. The game starts at 7:30 p.m. at the KellerISD Stadium.

JUNIOR CROSS COUNTRY RUNNER DOMINATES THE SOUTHLAKE INVITATIONAL MEET

Since the beginning of summer, the cross country athletes have been waking up for morning practices, before the sun even rises, just in preparation for their early season. Junior Braden Lange is very familiar with these intense practices, and also just what it takes to fully commit yourself to distance running. Lange and the rest of the Cross Country team competed in the Southlake Invitational, a 5k which takes place annually at the Bob Jones Park in Southlake, Texas.

At this meet, not only did Lange place seventh out of 295 runners in the 6A varsity boys race, but he also ran an impressive time of 15:35, which was his newest personal record. This was the third time running at this meet, so his past experience made the course seem much simpler, in comparison to that of freshman year. Maybe, after all, the third time really is a charm.

“The Southlake course is pretty flat and the weather was in the mid sixties with no wind, so it was the perfect day to [personal record],” Lange said.

Being one of the top runners on the team, Lange knows importance of not only pushing his own physical and mental limits, but also supporting and to acting as a strong backbone for his teammates. When paying attention to the social environment of the cross country team, one take away that could be received by anyone watching is the great leadership all the runners show to one another. The large family-like support system within the cross country team is something that many of the runners thrive off of, including Lange. Although the race times are personal to the runners, the runners continue to stand stronger together, always eager to lead.

“We’re always able to to push each other to fight through the harder workouts, even when we ourselves feel like we need to drop out,” Lange said.

These leadership qualities that the cross country runners embody are essential to everyday practice, but are crucial in those times where a fellow teammate hits a road block. According to Lange, seeing the little improvements in previous mistakes is one of the main reasons to run. In the end, it’s just all about overcoming those obstacles, which is what running is all about. The Southlake meet proved to be one of those obstacles.

“It’s always frustrating when your workouts aren’t improving at all, but it’s important to keep pushing each week, and to fix those little mistakes, even with the help of teammates,” Lange said.

However, Lange showed he could get past it. One tool that is beneficial when running in a race, he says, is a “race plan.” A “race plan” is just a mental guide to note as you run to keep the desired pace and to finish with an improved time. According to Lange, his race plan is to start out aggressively with the most elite runners, hold on with everything he can, and to speed up in the final mile. As a result, he was able to blow his old personal record out of the water, which was just under 16 minutes.

Recently, Lange was also ranked the eighth fastest male runner in 6A Texas schools, but with the cross country meets usually only a week apart from each other, Lange has to stay on his A game. Lange hopes to run in college and to continue to drop his 5k time even more this year.

Lange said, “The satisfaction of running is when you finish a race and you can really tell how much time you’ve taken off from the week before, and how much you’ve accomplished.”

COACH CONFIDENT IN PLAYOFF-BOUND TENNIS TEAM

With the team 3-1 in their district, Timber Creek Tennis looks to have a strong rest of their season. Making playoffs for the first time in the school's history, it is also the first year that the team has ever won three perfect dual matches. For Coach Roger Thomas, the team shows exceptional skill, not only supporting one another on the court, but off as well.

"We have a young team (only 5 seniors), with great team spirit," said Thomas. "We are paired with district 4-6A and have already played Lamar, Martin, and Paschal, three potential opponents. Although we lost those three matches, they were very close, and we were missing some top players. I know that the kids will compete well against any opponent. All of [them] have risen to the occasion and pulled out the wins."

Paired with district 4-6A and having already played against Lamar, Martin and Paschal High Schools, the team has learned how to adapt to the competition. Having varsity practice fifth period on school days during the heat of the day while other schools typically play during first period, the athletes have learned to adjust to almost anything.

"The kids are used to playing during the hottest time of the day [and practiced since the beginning of August]," Thomas said. "We have seen some players cramp up because they are not used to the afternoon playing conditions. We have [also] played more dual matches than in previous years. Playing a variety of teams has paid off in district play. We go into every match believing that we will compete and win."

Playoffs will start Oct. 16 for the team, as the tennis players look to make school history in their first year ever competing in playoffs.
